Nondiscrimination Policy  Emory University is an inquiry-driven, ethically engaged, and diverse community dedicated to the ideals of free academic discourse in teaching, scholarship, and community service. Emory University abides by the values of academic freedom and is built on the assumption that contention among different views is positive and necessary for the expansion of knowledge, both for the University itself and as a training ground for society at large. Emory is committed to the widest possible scope for the free circulation of ideas.

The University is committed to maintaining an environment that is free of unlawful harassment and discrimination. Pursuant to the University's commitment to a fair and open campus environment and in accordance with federal law, Emory cannot and will not tolerate discrimination against or harassment of any individual or group based upon race, color, religion, ethnic or national origin, gender, genetic information, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, veteran's status, or any factor that is a prohibited consideration under applicable law. Emory University welcomes and promotes an open and genuinely diverse environment.

SACS Accreditation  Emory University is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges to award associate, baccalaureate, master's, doctorate, and professional degrees. Contact the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, Georgia 30033-4097, call 404.679.4500, or visit the web at www.sacscoc.org for questions about the accreditation of Emory.

American Bar Association Character and Fitness Standard Statement  In addition to a bar examination, there are character, fitness, and other qualifications for admission to the bar in every US jurisdiction. Applicants are encouraged to determine the requirements for any jurisdiction in which they intend to seek admission by contacting the jurisdiction. Addresses for all relevant agencies are available through the National Conference of Bar Examiners.

Should you need this document in an alternate format, or require a reasonable accommodation, please contact the Office of Access, Disability Services and Resources at 404.712.9877 (V), 404.712.2049 (TDD). Please note that one-week advance notice is preferred.

April 8, 2017

Dear Class of 2020,

Welcome to the Emory Law community! We are delighted that you are here for our annual Visiting Day weekend. I hope you spend this weekend learning about all of the resources and benefits our students enjoy while preparing for their legal careers. We invite you to explore the campus, meet the Emory Law community, and, most importantly, ask questions. This weekend is your time to leave no stone unturned.

We constantly work to ensure our students have the best experience possible and are well prepared for a fulfilling career in a profession rooted in service and devoted to the pursuit of justice. We are committed to enhancing professional opportunities for our students through expanded connections with our alumni across the country, as well as through enhanced career planning resources.

Emory Law is about much more than a great classroom experience. From intramural sports teams to world-class cultural centers for art, theater, and musical entertainment, our students have much to explore on Emory’s campus and in Atlanta.

Emory University has played host to renowned visitors, such as the Dalai Lama, Salman Rushdie, and Alice Walker. Emory Law students have organized events and conferences featuring Nobel laureates, politicians, and distinguished legal scholars. Emory Law also hosts numerous symposia, with subjects ranging from environmental law and economics to human trafficking to international terrorism.

We work every day to provide our students with a deep knowledge of the law and a set of valuable skills to prepare them for practice. We challenge our students to apply their knowledge, as both lawyers and citizens of the world.

I look forward to meeting you this weekend.

Regards,

Robert

Robert B. Ahdieh
Vice Dean, K.H. Gyr Professor of Private International Law
Robert B. Ahdieh served as law clerk to Judge James R. Browning of the US Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit before his selection for the Honor’s Program in the Civil Division of the US Department of Justice. While still in law school, Ahdieh published what remains one of the seminal treatments of the constitutional transformation of post-Soviet Russia: Russia’s Constitutional Revolution—Legal Consciousness and the Transition to Democracy. Ahdieh’s work — on administrative law and financial regulation — has also appeared in the Michigan Law Review, the Minnesota Law Review, the NYU Law Review, and the Southern California Law Review, among other journals. He has been a visiting professor at Columbia, Georgetown, Princeton, and numerous other universities — both in the United States and abroad. He earned his JD at Yale University and AB at Princeton University.

Emily Baker 01L
Partner at Jones Day, Member of Emory Law’s Alumni Board
Emily Baker is a trial lawyer whose practice includes both the defense of individual and class action consumer and products liability cases and the prosecution and defense of other complex commercial cases. Her experience covers nearly all aspects of discovery and trial preparation, and she has been a member of several trial teams in high-profile cases, including the defense team that successfully represented The Sherwin-Williams Company in a public nuisance action brought by the Rhode Island attorney general. Baker has also tried over a dozen product liability cases to verdict in federal courts in Florida and California and state courts throughout Florida. She is a member of the State Bars of Georgia and Florida and the Defense Research Institute. She is a sustainer in the Junior League of Atlanta, has participated in Emory University’s mentorship program, and is a master in the Lamar Inn of Court.

Frank S. Alexander
Sam Nunn Professor of Law, Co-founder and Senior Advisor for the Center for Community Progress
Frank S. Alexander is the co-founder and senior advisor of the Center for Community Progress. The author of over fifty publications in the fields of real estate finance, law and theology, and community development, some of his recent publications include Georgia Real Estate Finance and Foreclosure Law 2016-2017 (12th ed. 2016) (with Sara Toering and Sarah Mancini); Land Banks and Land Banking (2d ed. 2015); Neighborhood Stabilization Strategies for Vacant and Abandoned Properties (2011); Christianity and Human Rights: An Introduction (2010, with John Witte, Jr.); and Christianity and Law: An Introduction (2008, with John Witte, Jr.). Alexander has received the Student Bar Association Award for Most Outstanding Professor (2015, 2014, 2010, 2004), the Ben F. Johnson Faculty Excellence Award (1998), the Emory Williams Award for Distinguished Teaching in Professional Education (1991), and the Student Bar Association Award as the Professor Who Best Exemplifies the Ideals of the Legal Profession (on eight occasions). He earned a BA at the University of North Carolina and his JD and MTS at Harvard University.

Christopher Bly 02L
Assistant United States Attorney - Appellate Section, Former Member of Emory University’s Alumni Board
Chris Bly is an assistant United States attorney in the appellate section of the United States Attorney’s Office in Atlanta, Georgia. After graduating from Emory College and Emory University School of Law, Bly served as a law clerk for Judge William C. O’Kelley on the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia and Judge Stanley Marcus on the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals. He practiced in the business litigation sections of Jones Day and King & Spalding before becoming a federal prosecutor. He previously served on Emory’s Alumni Board.

Katherine A. Brokaw
Assistant Dean for Academic Engagement and Success
Katherine A. Brokaw graduated magna cum laude from Princeton University and was the principal speechwriter for Governor Thomas Kean of New Jersey before attending Columbia Law School, where she was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar and articles editor of the Columbia Journal of Law and Social Problems. She clerked for US District Judge Robert P. Patterson Jr. in the Southern District of New York. She practiced at Davis Polk & Wardwell in New York and King & Spalding in Atlanta for several years as a commercial litigator before coming to Emory Law in 2005. She also worked as an attorney assistant to the Board of Bar Examiners, helping to write and grade bar exam essay questions for five years. Brokaw is a member of the State Bar of Georgia Committee to Promote Inclusion in the Profession.

Jill Camper
Associate Director of Student Life

Jill Camper has seven years of experience in higher education with a focus in student advisement, diversity and inclusion, leadership development, and large scale event planning. In her current role, she provides support to 55+ student organizations, oversees the Diversity & Inclusion Coalition, advises the Student Bar Association, and coordinates orientation programming. She received Emory’s Brit Katz Award in 2013 and the LGBT Ally of the Year Award in 2017. Prior to joining the Emory community, Camper received her master’s degree from Texas A&M University in higher education administration, and a bachelor’s degree in communication from Illinois State University.

Richard D. Freer
Robert Howell Hall Professor of Law

Richard D. Freer clerked for a federal district judge and a federal appellate judge before litigating with the Los Angeles firm of Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher. The student body at Emory has named him Most Outstanding Professor eight times, and the Black Law Students Association has named him Professor of the Year five times. Emory University recognized him with its Scholar/Teacher Award in 2008, and he is a recipient of the university’s highest teaching award, the Emory Williams Award for Excellence in Teaching. He also has received Emory Law’s triennial Ben F. Johnson Award for Faculty Excellence. He has served as visiting professor at George Washington University and at Central European University in Budapest and has been in residence at Regent’s Park College, Oxford, and at European University Institute in Fiesole. He is author or co-author of sixteen books, including leading casebooks on civil procedure, complex litigation, and business associations. He is the only person to have served as contributing author to both of the standard multivolume treatises on federal jurisdiction and practice: Moore’s Federal Practice and Wright & Miller’s Federal Practice and Procedure. His articles on various areas of federal jurisdiction and procedure have appeared in the NYU Law Review, Duke Law Journal, Northwestern University Law Review, Texas Law Review, and Emory Law Journal, among others.

Cindy Gershman
Associate Director, Emory University Office of Financial Aid

Cindy Gershman began working at Emory University in 2007. Before Emory, she worked in the financial aid office at Nova Southeastern University in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, for ten years. She has worked in financial aid since 1996 and holds an MBA from NSU. Her favorite aspect of her job is assisting students with their financial aid questions to help them implement the best strategies to be successful—not only as a student, but after graduation as well.

Melissa Hawkins 03L
Partner at Albury-Hawkins Attorneys at Law, Member of Emory Law’s Alumni Board

Upon graduation from Emory University School of Law, Melissa Hawkins began her career as a bond attorney where she served as counsel for governments and other entities who borrowed money for public purposes. Now, she advocates for families in Georgia, representing husbands, wives, mothers and fathers in divorce proceedings, legitimations, child custody matters, child support modifications and paternity actions. She is a member of both the State of Ohio and Georgia Bar. In 2005, she was named “Cincinnati’s Generation Next” in “Who’s Who in Black Cincinnati” and was a Minorities in the Profession Scholar (2006-2007). She’s also a member of the American Bar Association (2006) and the Emory Law Alumni Board (since 2009).

John Leach
Director, Emory University Office of Financial Aid

John Leach is the director of the Office of Financial Aid at Emory University. Before joining Emory in 2014, Leach served as director of college counseling.
at Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart in Princeton, New Jersey, since 2011. Prior to that he was associate dean of financial aid at Davidson College where one of his primary duties was providing financial aid education to parents, counselors, and students throughout the nation. A former history teacher at Montgomery Bell Academy (Nashville, Tennessee) and history department chair at Greensboro Day School (Greensboro, North Carolina), Leach completed his undergraduate studies at Davidson College and has a master’s degree from Vanderbilt University.

Ellis Liu 13L
Associate at Wilson Elser

Ellis Liu is a 2013 graduate of Emory University School of Law and a commercial liability litigator. After graduating from Emory, the Atlanta Bar Association named him “Young Lawyer of the Year,” the Atlanta Business Chronicle included him in “Atlanta’s 30 Under 30,” and the State Bar accepted him into its Leadership Academy. While at Emory, Liu interned for a federal judge, the district attorney’s office, and in-house in the South’s largest property management corporation. He also drafted and lobbied for a state bill to protect minors from felony prosecution under state obscenity laws (passed May 2013), and he mediated over 100 landlord-tenant cases as a registered mediator. An Atlanta native, Liu attended the University of Georgia immediately prior to starting at Emory.

Lydia Russo
Assistant Dean for Professional Development and Career Strategy

Since 2012 Lydia Russo has overseen a transformation of Emory Law’s Center for Professional Development & Career Strategy from a traditional law school career services office into a student-focused career center. Her talented, dynamic team provides customized career planning to students based on their own unique interests. Russo brings over fifteen years of legal education experience to the Career Center. After an accomplished tenure as a commercial real estate lawyer at Rogers Towers, PA in Jacksonville, Florida, Russo found her passion bridging students’ law school experiences with their professional aspirations. Following her passion, she went on to serve as the associate director for Career Services at both Roger Williams University School of Law and Florida Coastal School of Law before joining Emory. She received her JD with honors from the University of Florida College of Law, where she served as an executive editor on the Florida Law Review, and her BA magna cum laude in psychology from Bates College.

Ethan Rosenzweig 02L
Senior Assistant Dean for Admission, Financial Aid, and Student Life

After serving as Emory Law’s director of alumni affairs, Ethan Rosenzweig now oversees admission, financial aid, and student life for the school’s JD, AJD, and LLM programs. He has served as deputy director of the US Department of Education’s Office of Policy Briefing and Scheduling as a Presidential Management Fellow. After law school, he clerked for the Honorable G. Ernest Tidwell of the US District Court of Northern Georgia and then practiced law with Nelson Mullins Riley & Scarborough in Charleston, South Carolina. A Woodruff Fellow, Rosenzweig graduated Order of the Coif and served as the executive notes and comments editor for the Emory Law Journal. He received his undergraduate and master’s degrees in public policy from American University.

Robert A. Schapiro
Dean and Asa Griggs Candler Professor of Law

Robert A. Schapiro was appointed dean in 2012, after serving as interim dean for the previous academic year. He has been a member of the law school’s faculty since 1995, and teaches courses in constitutional law, federal courts, civil procedure, and legislation and regulation. A graduate of Yale Law School, Schapiro served as editor-in-chief of the Yale Law Journal. He served as a clerk for Judge Pierre N. Leval of the US District Court for the Southern District of New York and for Justice John Paul Stevens of the US Supreme Court. He worked with the law firm of Sidley & Austin in Washington, DC, where he practiced general and appellate litigation. Prior to joining Emory Law, Schapiro taught for two years at Duke Law School. He earned his BA at Yale and his MA at Stanford University.
Fred Smith Jr.

Visiting Professor of Law

Fred Smith Jr. is an assistant professor at Berkeley Law School. In the fall of 2017, he will become an associate professor at Emory Law. He is a scholar of the federal judiciary and constitutional law. Smith clerked for Judge Myron Thompson of the Middle District of Alabama; Judge Barrington D. Parker, Jr. of the US Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit; and Justice Sonia Sotomayor of the United States Supreme Court. Prior to teaching, he also worked as a fellow for a litigation boutique, Bondurant, Mixson & Elmore LLP in Atlanta. Smith’s research focuses on state sovereignty and representative government. His work has appeared, or will appear, in Harvard Law Review, Stanford Law Review, Columbia Law Review, New York University Law Review, Vanderbilt Law Review, and Fordham Law Review. Smith earned a BA with honors from Harvard College in 2004 and a JD from Stanford Law School in 2007.

John Witte Jr.

Robert W. Woodruff Professor of Law; McDonald Distinguished Professor; and Director, Center for the Study of Law and Religion

John Witte Jr. has published 250 articles and 30 books in 16 languages, including The Reformation of Rights (Cambridge, 2007); Christianity and Law (Cambridge, 2008); The Sins of the Fathers (Cambridge, 2009); Christianity and Human Rights (Cambridge, 2011); Religion and Human Rights (Oxford University, 2012); No Establishment of Religion (Oxford, 2012); The Western Case for Monogamy over Polygamy (Cambridge, 2015); and Religion and the American Constitutional Experiment (4th ed. Oxford, 2016). He has delivered 350 major public lectures throughout the world, and directed 13 major international research projects on law and religion themes. He edits the “Cambridge Studies in Law and Christianity” and “Emory Studies in Law and Religion,” and co-edits The Journal of Law and Religion. He has been selected twelve times as the Most Outstanding Professor at Emory Law and won scores of other awards and prizes for his teaching and research.

After 100 years, Emory Law remains dedicated to preparing students to meet the challenges of an evolving, complex, and global legal environment and ensuring graduates are prepared to make an immediate and lasting impact in their chosen careers.
Alumni Network

More than 11,000 alumni across the US and in countries around the world become your network when you join Emory Law. In addition to the 40 percent of Emory Law graduates practicing in Atlanta, Emory’s strong alumni network connects graduates to other legal markets in major metropolitan areas around the country and all over the world.

Studying Law in Atlanta

Emory, an internationally respected university
Emory University is recognized as one of the world’s leading institutions of learning, combining nine undergraduate, graduate, and professional schools with the largest healthcare system and sponsored research base of any university in Georgia. Emory maintains active partnership with many of the city’s preeminent institutions, such as The Carter Center, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and Georgia Institute of Technology.

Emory has been recognized for its commitment to maintaining sustainability as one of its top priorities. In 2013, the university was named the nation’s top “Higher Education Institution” by the US Green Building Council’s Center for Green Schools in its “Best of Green Schools” report.

As a law student, you will be able to take advantage of state-of-the-art university fitness and aquatic facilities, which are conveniently located on both the Clifton Road and Clairmont campuses.

Atlanta, a global city with Southern charm
With a population of more than 5 million people, the Southeast’s largest city provides countless opportunities for legal networking, externships, and summer jobs. Metro Atlanta ranks third in the US for the number of Fortune 500 company headquarters, and the regional offices of nearly every federal agency—including the Securities and Exchange Commission and Environmental Protection Agency—are nearby.

Atlanta is a great place to live. With a temperate climate and renowned Southern hospitality, Atlanta offers a warm welcome for everyone. Catch a Braves or Falcons game; visit the High Museum of Art or Georgia Aquarium; go strolling, running, or cycling through Piedmont Park or Atlanta’s lovely, tree-lined neighborhoods; get tickets for the award-winning Atlanta Symphony Orchestra; or listen to the latest indie-rock band playing at Eddie’s Attic. There is a range of restaurants for the most, and least, discriminating foodies—from exclusive Buckhead bistros, to dim sum on Buford Highway, to Southern style barbecue just down the street.

“In less than five years from my graduation from Emory, I was working as in-house counsel for the Atlanta NBA and NHL teams—the Atlanta Hawks and Atlanta Thrashers. Now, I am with AMB Group, the parent company for the Atlanta Falcons, the new MLS Team, Atlanta United FC and Mercedes-Benz Stadium. I have also spent the past nine years sharing my experiences as an adjunct professor of sports law at Emory Law. I look forward to seeing you in my class!”

Experiential and Practical, Hands-On Learning

Emory Law has countless opportunities to experience law in action. We empower students to discern their legal path right from the start of their legal education, from a first-year elective that explores an area of possible legal interest to a wide range of clinics, simulation programs, and externships that guide students in finding their legal voice.

Experiential Learning

The American Bar Association accreditation standards now require law students graduating May 2019 or later to complete at least one or more experiential courses totaling at least six credit hours. For more information about the experiential learning requirements at Emory Law, visit law.emory.edu/experiential-learning.

Clinics Emory Law clinics offer curriculum-based, real-world experience through direct client service in a range of settings under the direct supervision of law school faculty. Each clinic’s docket is designed to fully immerse students in all aspects of the legal process.

- Barton Policy and Legislative Clinics
- Barton Juvenile Defender Clinic
- Barton Appeal for Youth Clinic
- International Humanitarian Law Clinic
- Turner Environmental Law Clinic
- Volunteer Clinic for Veterans*

Externships Externships are an integral part of the Emory Law experience, taking the skills and principles you learn in the classroom and applying them in practice. Our externship program places more than 150 students per semester with more than 120 government agencies, public interest organizations, courts, companies, and small law firms. Under the supervision of an attorney, you will hone real-world skills, including research, writing, advocacy, interviewing, counseling, litigation, and case investigation.

TI:GER® The Technological Innovation: Generating Economic Results (TI:GER®) Program is a partnership between two world-class institutions—Emory and Georgia Tech—that unites law, business, science, and engineering students in learning to take innovative ideas from the lab to the marketplace.

Transactional Law and Skills Certificate Program Emory Law’s robust Transactional Law and Skills Certificate curriculum is the gold standard for transactional law education, preparing students to add value to a transaction from day one on the job.

Trial Techniques The Kessler-Eidson Program for Trial Techniques immerses you in “learn-by-doing” oral advocacy, connecting you with nationally recognized trial lawyers, judges, and professors as you learn—and experience—the mechanics of litigating a case.

Other Practical, Hands-on Learning Opportunities

Supreme Court Advocacy Program The David J. Bederman Emory Law School Supreme Court Advocacy Program (ELSSCAP) is the only student-run Supreme Court litigation program in the United States. Students work under the guidance of experienced litigators as they handle all aspects of ELSSCAP’s work, which includes producing persuasive petitions for certiorari and amicus briefs for the Supreme Court.

Moot Court and Mock Trial Societies Fortify your skills in trial advocacy through the Emory Mock Trial Society, which will help fine-tune your litigation skills through competitions. Develop a knack for brief writing and oral advocacy through the Emory Moot Court Society, which will help you become an effective appellate advocate.
